

imagine:

a friend

well traveled,

and with superb taste

gives you the keys

to their well appointed place

and says

make yourself at home!

BERLIN • WEDDING

aptm (a place to meet):

a personal space for intimate gatherings, a living design gallery, an ever changing retail experience, and a product showplace.

a place where memories are made and celebrated, where purveyors and enjoyers connect, where people and experiences come to life.

an experience which is curated, hand picked, orchestrated, for you and your guests to feel at home, but better.

details:

workshops, conferences, press junkets, off sites, breakfast/lunch meetings, cocktails, dinner parties, photo shoots, fittings, filming, exhibitions, showcases, trunk shows, product presentations

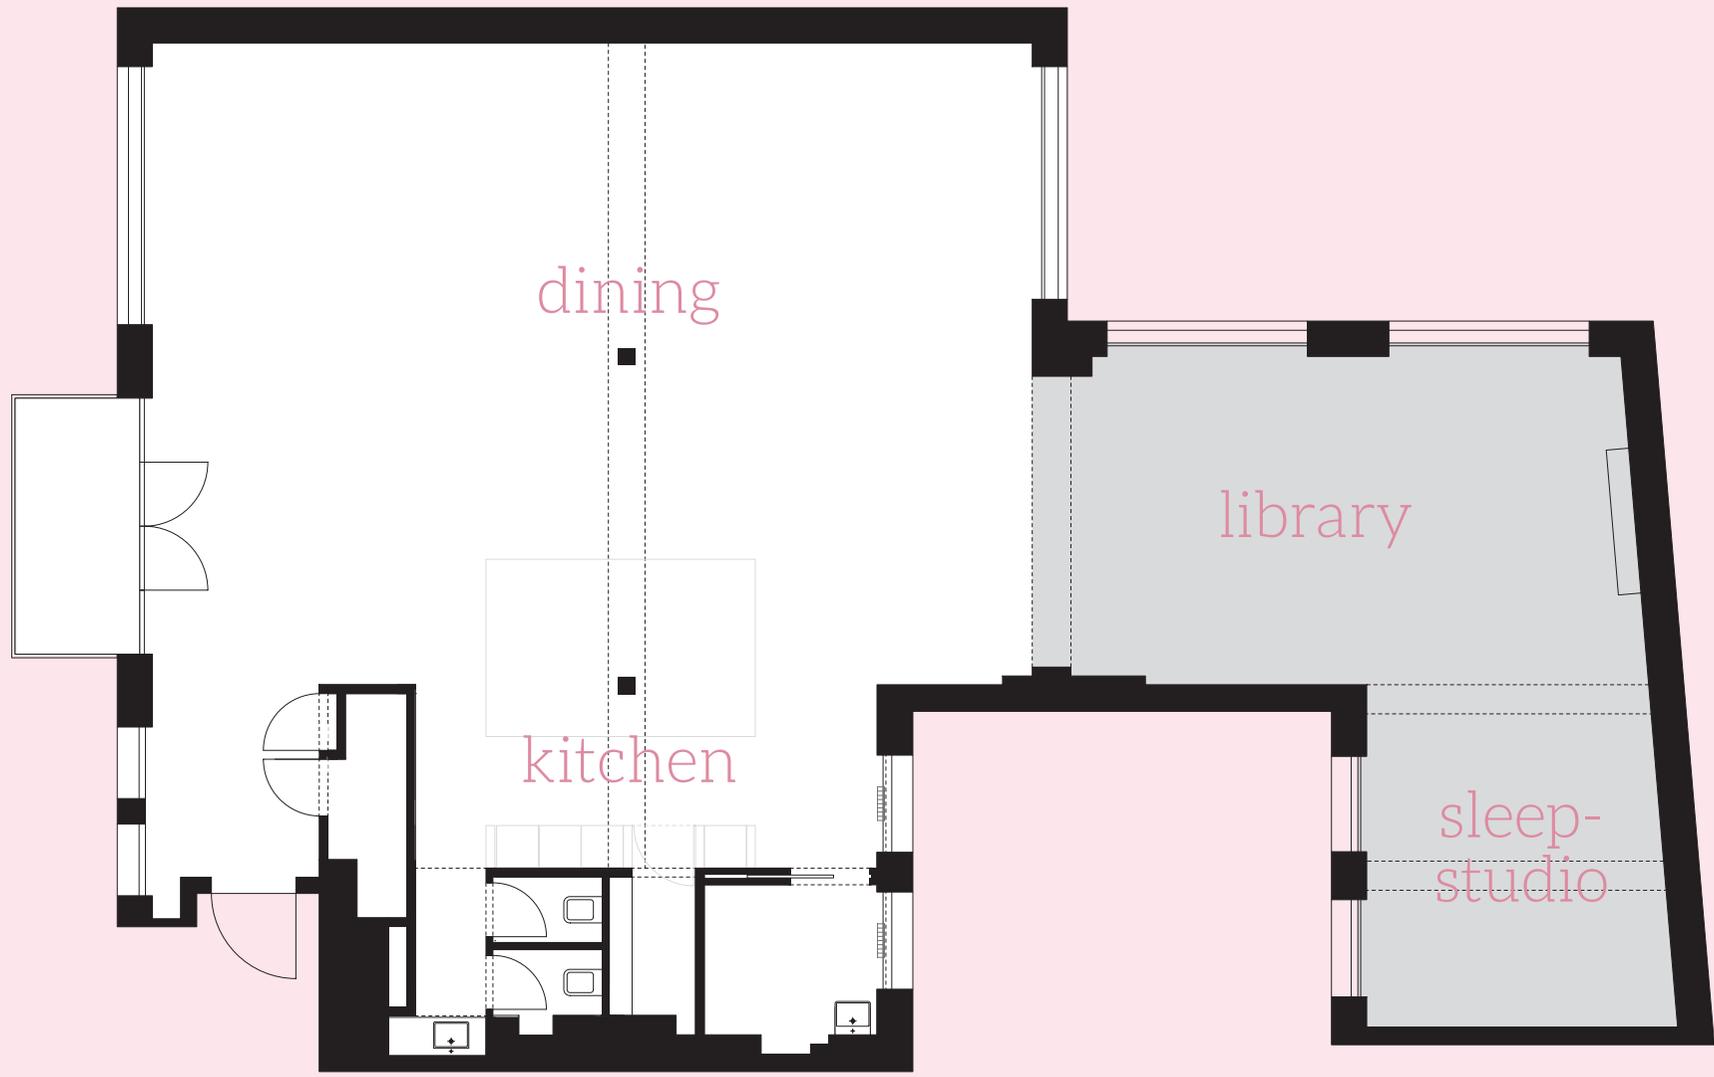

230 sqm

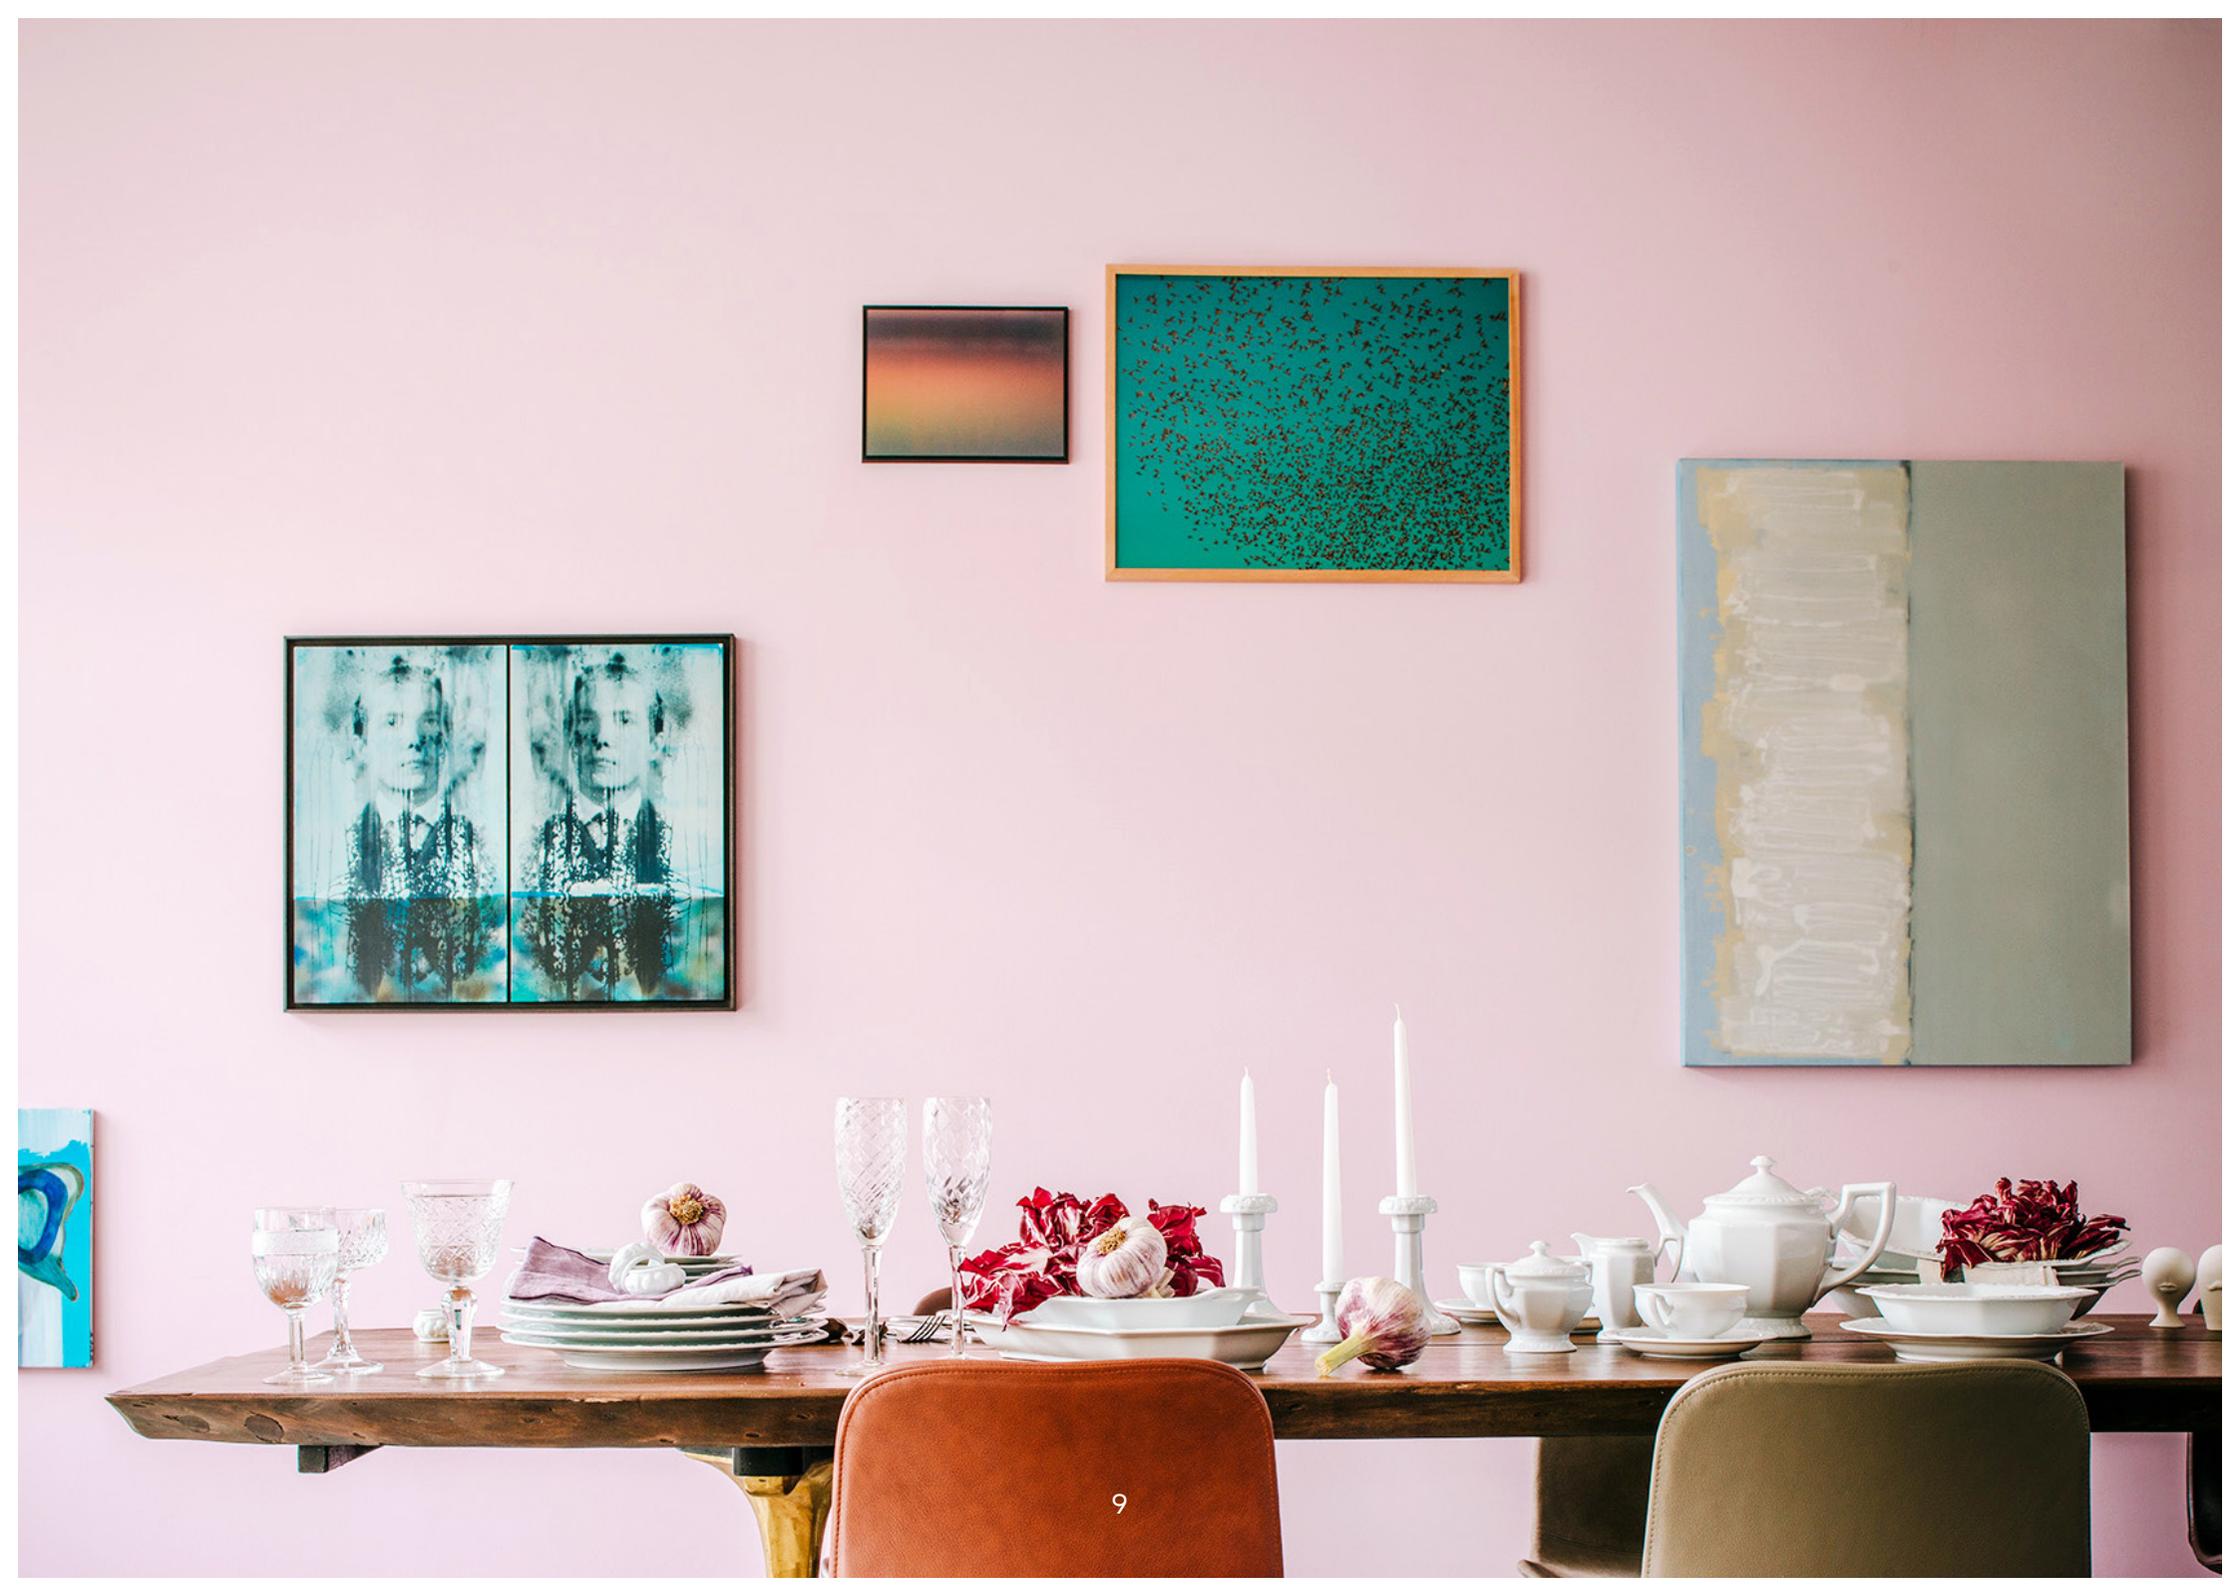

Berlin – Wedding

seats up to 40, drinks up to 100

ask about our curated collection of “slow” catering partners who focus on locally sourced and ethically grown goods enjoy our hand picked assortment of art, furniture, and products which change seasonally and add a personal touch to the environment

creator:

A modern Renaissance man and the ultimate host, Chris Glass is a man of many worlds. An influencer, writer, community architect, musician, and design aficionado, he's made the world his home.

A native son of Atlanta, Chris studied Musical Theatre at the Boston Conservatory of Music, before moving to New York and finally Europe in 2001.

Chris worked for New York's downtown spa Bliss before joining the e-commerce beauty platform Beautyspy. From there he sold sexy - launching Lip Lingerie for the Queen of the Night, Dianne Brill, then sexier - bringing the luxury erotic lifestyle brand Jimmyjane to market throughout Europe. In this role, Chris helped to blur the lines that defined where and how products related to pleasure are meant to be seen and sold. The brand was a runaway success at premier fashion retailers Browns (London), L'Ecclaireur (Paris), Isetan (Tokyo), Dover Street Market (London), Departmentstore Quartier 206 (Berlin), Apropos (Cologne), Selfridges (London), and more.

A frequent contributor to ICON, Vogue, Grazia, and L'Officiel Homme, Chris' writing is poignant and entertaining, amusing and reflective. As a personality, Chris has been featured as part of advertising campaigns for Peek and Cloppenburg and fashion designer T Michael, as well as being featured in photographer Magnus Reed's book showcasing Berlin's most iconic faces.

In his role as part of Hertha BSC's Digital Board, Chris helps to bridge the space between Berlin's hometown football club and the creative industries that are Berlin's future. Set to launch in 2017, Chris is the creator and host of The New Pink - a quarterly salon focused on the most pressing cultural and social issues related to the LGBT community. Further, Chris was chosen as one of 115 men who embody style as part of the Mr. Porter Style Council. This group of the world's best connected men provide tips on travel and style on www.mrporter.com.

Based in Berlin, he currently splits his time building creative communities in Berlin, Amsterdam, Istanbul, Barcelona, and Mumbai in his role as the European Membership Director for Soho House.

A PLACE TO MEET